Solidarity Conference on Justice and Accountability in Sri Lanka (Bangkok, Thailand)

- The last phase of the civil war in Sri Lanka between the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE) and the State forces in the North and Eastern parts left several thousands dead and injured. Deplorable and grave human rights violations and crimes against humanity were committed by both warring factions, causing civilians innumerable suffering. With what many experts have branded as the gravest human rights violation in recent times, evidence of enforced disappearances, extra judicial killings, violence against children and women were rampant, with substantial evidence still emerging. These violations have not been contained to the warring period, and are in fact still continuing. Human rights defenders, journalist and lawyers are under particular attack with State institutions becoming highly polarized there remains little avenue for redress. The United Nations and the rest of the international community has been speaking in union in the demand for accountability and justice however many Asian states have fallen behind.
- The second country specific solidarity campaign initiative with FORUM-Asia after a conference on Thailand, this conference was organized to generate solidarity among civil society in Asia to support the democracy and human rights movement in Sri Lanka.

The event also served as a tribute to the historic work of George Fernandes in support of labor rights in India and democracy and human rights in Tibet and Burma.
- His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama, Tenzin Gyatso, spiritual leader of the Tibetan people, gave a compelling talk about democracy, compassion, and universal responsibility during the opening session. The six panels over the course of two days covered a wide range of aspects in the plight for democracy in Asia, panels on urbanization and the role of local democracy, youth approaches to the democratic process, inclusive economic development and women entrepreneurs.
